Mountain Biking Park City Welcome Letter

As the last streaks of white vanish from our purview, we can't help but feel there's a little extra something melting away than just the winter season. As we shed our layers and tune-up our gears, we're also shaking off a long year of pandemic uncertainty that's been an uphill battle for many members of our community. Naturally, we can't think of a better way to refocus, regroup, and stay the course than to hop on the bike and keep riding.

450 miles of non-motorized trails across the Wasatch Back should be a good start, but in case there's time for one more run, Park City has you covered. 9K Trail sits at a lofty 9,000 feet elevation atop Deer Valley Resort's Empire Pass and will expand this summer to allow riders an opportunity to explore more of the mountain's unforgettable landscape.

Next door, lift-served mountain biking and a variety of terrain pour down from the peaks of Park City Mountain Resort. Riders who are new to the mountain, along with those who rarely leave it, can spin their wheels on fresh tracks and familiar favorites from daybreak to après.

With the desire to make up for lost time, riders can lean on Woodward Park City. Open 365 days and nights a year, the indoor Action Sports Hub and outdoor Woodward Mountain Park/Action Sports Parks provide a year-round mountain biking experience. Indoor ramps, pump tracks and foam pits give riders the opportunity to progress all year long.

Group and private lessons, camps, and clinics are available for kids, adults, and families. Professional coaches at Deer Valley Resort and Woodward Park City share their expertise on everything from beginner basics to expert-level techniques for riders of all abilities.

An occasional respite is inevitable between rides, and thankfully a wide range of activities including hiking, horseback riding, outdoor concerts, art galleries, spas, and world-class dining are always just steps away from the trail. Designated a Gold Level Ride Center by the International Mountain Biking Association (IMBA), it's no wonder riders come to Park City for the trails and stay for so much more.

So, whatever that most difficult challenge is for you – the top of a climb, the fear of the descent, or anxiety to get back in the saddle – we're right here in it with you. And we're confident we're finally rounding the bend.

MOUNTAIN BIKING IN PARK CITY

New Terrain at Woodward Park City

Open 7 days a week, 365 days a year, and still progressing. Woodward Park City will add two new progression zones – areas designed to grow an individual's technique with an emphasis on style, two new technical trails - areas that require a more developed skill when riding through rugged terrain features, and revisions to lower Parley's Way. These additions will increase Woodward Park City's mountain bike offering to 10 different lift-accessed zones, including the BMX dirt jumps, for an unforgettable experience for never-evers to the most expert riders.

NAC Group Handcycle Rides

This summer, it's all about fun and community at the National Ability Center. Intermediate to advanced, "arm-powered" mountain bikers ages 16+ are invited to join NAC guides for weekly group mountain bike rides for hand cyclists to try a new challenge, discover new routes and meet new riding buddies. Tuesdays, 5:30–7pm. All riders must pre-register. Contact the National Ability Center for trail plan and meeting location.

450+ Miles: Growing higher, longer, stronger

Development continues on the 9K Trail, an expansive thoroughfare that traverses terrain at around 9,000 feet elevation. A mix of fir, aspen and low scrub vegetation, 9K Trail serves as a higher-elevation version of the Mid Mountain Trail – located at 8,000 feet. Upon completion, 9K Trail and Mid Mountain Trail will connect to create a long loop that will give riders access to terrain spanning Deer Valley Resort and Park City Mountain. 9K Trail's first segment currently runs 1.8 miles from Empire Pass to Black Forest trail and is slated to extend to Fat Lip and Keystone trails this summer. Meanwhile, the newly expanded Oakley Trail Park located northeast of Park City, completed by the South Summit Trails Foundation, includes a new beginner skills and drills area equipped with a pump track and jump line geared toward new riders.
