Mountain Biking Park City Welcome Letter

As record snowfall slowly melts from the peaks of the Wasatch Mountains, the time has come to tune up the bike, tighten your helmet, and prepare for the ultimate mountain biking season ahead. Tempting as it may be to plot out every turn as not to miss a new trail or breathtaking vista, we invite you to also carve out some time to just go with the flow. After all, unexpected trails lead to memories you never knew you would create. Until now.

Named a Gold Level Ride Center by the International Mountain Biking Association (IMBA), Park City has been creating that seemingly effortless flow for some time. This year is no exception, with brand new flow trails arriving at Deer Valley Resort and Park City Mountain, opening fresh opportunities for beginner, intermediate, and expert-level riders to enjoy new views of the mountain from behind their handlebars.

While 500 miles of non-motorized trails feels expansive, the Park City area mountain biking scene is more connected than ever before. With terrain spanning the slopes of Deer Valley Resort, Park City Mountain, and Utah Olympic Park, along with cross-country offerings at Round Valley and in Kamas, and park features at Trailside, the extensive network of trails is growing, yet grounded. Conscientious planning and mindful investments are hard at work building strong, sustainable connections – between riders and trails – to foster a welcoming, inclusive riding community.

Further extensions of our world-renowned mountain biking destination are Park City's award-winning restaurants, bars, accommodations, spas, art galleries, shops, live entertainment, and convenient public transportation. Each facet of your visit – what you eat, where you sleep, and how you recreate – is met with thoughtful, personalized service only a top-tier hospitality destination like Park City can provide.

So, join us. Although a strict itinerary will not disappoint, dare to go off-course. Embrace the swift switchbacks, steep drops, and winding paths that may lead to the unknown. Often times, it is here where we finally find our flow.

The Town Lift from Main Street and Red Pine Gondola at the Canyons Village also unloads mountain bikers at access points for the IMBA Epic Ride on the Mid-Mountain Trail. Bike rentals are available in the village. Please refer to parkcitymountain.com for summer mountain bike rates, hours of operation, and more information.

MOUNTAIN BIKING IN PARK CITY

Expert-Level Chainge Reaction Opens at Park City Mountain

Arriving mid-summer 2023, Park City Mountain will unveil their new expert-only downhill flow trail, Chainge Reaction. A collaboration between Mountain Trails Foundation and professional trail builder and Park City native Derek Thomson, the new trail will be accessible off Charlie's 9K just before the runout below Jupiter Peak. It will finish near the bottom of McConkey's lift and will include a return connector to Keystone. The steep drops, jumps, roots, rocks, and tight trees bring a more technical and feature-rich downhill option to Park City Mountain's current terrain offerings. Catalysts for Chainge Reaction are The Change Reaction Foundation Co-Founder Greg Perlman, and Vail Resorts, who donated their private land for public benefit.

Cuisine for Every Craving

Hours spent in the saddle traversing the mountain will inevitably lead to daydreams about your next meal. Thankfully, Park City's world-class restaurants offer globally inspired menus using local, sustainable ingredients for every taste, mood, and crew. parkcityrestaurants.com

Stay Your Way

From no-frills comfort to 5-Star luxury, accommodations abound for every type of rider. Hotels, lodges, resorts, condos, and vacation rentals of all sizes bring the comforting touches of home to an epic vacation. mountainbikingparkcity.com or pcala.org

While You're at It

Summer recreation and activities including hiking, fly fishing, ziplining, water sports, golf, horseback riding, hot-air ballooning, live outdoor concerts, shopping, gallery strolls, and visits to signature stops like the Park City Museum, Utah Olympic Park, and Swaner Preserve and EcoCenter fill in the gaps between rides. visitparkcity.com

Deer Valley Invests $500,000+ in New Summer Terrain

In an effort to create more seamless connections between the resort's Snow Park base area and Silver Lake perched mid-mountain, Deer Valley will dedicate more than $500,000 to new trails this season.

With the help of Gravity Logic, two new flow trails – the blue INTERMEDIATE TRAIL NAME and black EXPERT TRAIL NAME – will cascade down Bald Eagle this summer, along with a new dedicated hiking trail, HIKING TRAIL NAME. Ripple, the resort's newest green flow trail, will officially be open top to bottom this summer for a long, leisurely ride accessible to all levels. With so much new terrain to explore, Deer Valley will be offering twice the twilight with two nights of the ever-popular Twilight Ride Series of evening lift service on Tuesdays and Thursdays all summer long.

Designated Downtime

Fresh mountain air, adrenaline-pumping downhill, and long endurance rides sap plenty of energy. Dozens of personalized massage and spa services await to help you relax, restore, and recharge before your next ride. visitparkcity.com/things-to-do/beauty-wellness
